Holiday for Debtors
Beggers and Mobs
Two Trips in One
We Need No Mikado

By Arthur Brisbane

NEVADA HAS declared a "business and bank holiday" extending until Nov. 12, and covering the whole State. Lieut. Gov. Griswold, acting in the absence of Gov. Frank B. Rowland, said he thought the holiday would be good for business banks, bank depositors and the entire people of Nevada. Until Nov. 12, no debtor in Nevada need pay anybody anything, no bills, wages, mortgages, interest, nothing.

The main idea is to give certain banks a chance to strengthen their position.

What would be the result if all debts, bills, obligations of every sort in the United States were suddenly cancelled, not for 12 days, but forever? That will not happen, but it is a question that could not be answered off-hand.

Among the ancient Hebrews, all debts were cancelled, once in many years, everybody starting afresh.

In London pathetic beggars and angry mobs have changed their methods. By their methods, the mob talked until the police came, then were away. Now a mob marches on Buckingham Palace, a thing unheard of. Mob leaders demand the right to enter the House of Commons and argue directly with honorable members.

Also, much money, members of the mob carry supplies of large marbles. When possible, they approach on horseback they drop these marbles, causing the mob to stumble and fall as they step on the small spheres.

Also the mob puts down plants with sharp spikes projecting, to puncture the tires of motorcyclic police.

A beggar in the old days, asking for a penny, said, "Thank you, sir." If you gave or refused, he doesn't care any more.

He may see photographs of a beggar in letters coming before an open carriage with the King and two of his sons, begging directly from the King himself.

Edward F. Mullon, able young business man, who broadcast two of the few good speeches made on the Republican side during the campaign, was elected Mayor in New York, on Monday, and at parting told him a story which may be new to you.

"A colored gentleman, persistently hanging around a hotel, confessed to a pilot that his only ambition was to go up in the air. The kind pilot took him up, hoisted the poor fellow overboard, and then brought him down. His passenger said solemnly: 'Now, I thank you for those two wonderful rides. Why do you want two rides?' 'For the first, I thank you. The second, I thank you. I want to go up in the air, and then come back down.'"

The writer is not able to tell just how the story applies to modern politics. Perhaps you will know.

In Japan, formerly, no subject might see the Mikado. When he passed, on his way to worship his ancestors, everybody hurried indoors or fell flat on their faces. He was too holy to be seen.

In the United States apparently it is included in the Bill of Rights, that the people of the United States.

There has much excitement because Governor Roosevelt recently said that the Supreme Court is made up largely of Republicans. If it is naturally and properly, since Republican Presidents have appointed a majority of the court.

The President, who has the power to appoint Supreme Court judges, or a candidate, who may have last power, should be allowed to mention them, or even say what he thinks of them.

Even judges are human. He, those that possess a sense of humor are glad to know a presidential candidate or anybody else thinks of them.

Some country needs no grand fairs, or mikado, too holy for people to look at, and doesn't intend to have any.

In New York, victims of the depression select a street corner, for red lights to stop traffic, then approach automobiles, asking help.

Mr. Hoover, Man Without a Country, Meet Abraham Lincoln, American

Be Assured the American Government "Shall Not Perish From the Earth."

MR. HOOVER declares sentimentally that the preservation of the American form of government is at stake in this election.

Mr. Hoover wrote over his own signature in an article printed in the Yale News:

"The crowd only feels; IT HAS NO MIND OF ITS OWN WHICH CAN PLAN."

"The crowd is credulous. It consumes, it hates, and it dreams; BUT IT NEVER BUILDS."

"POPULAR DESIRES ARE NO CRITERIA TO THE REAL NEED; that can be determined only by deliberative consideration, by education, by constructive leadership."

"THE CROWD" is Mr. Hoover's contemptuous description of the American public and as a natural consequence of this attitude Mr. Hoover approves and encourages class government by the favored and superior few.

Abraham Lincoln, who founded the Republican party, had a different idea of American government. He defined it as a "government of the people, by the people, for the people."

He did not distrust the American people. He was one of them.

If Mr. Hoover is right, then Abraham Lincoln is wrong, and the Republican party should cease to quote Mr. Lincoln's inspiring utterances, since it does not believe in them, and should substitute Mr. Hoover's flutulent banalities.

Richard Waterman Thayer, 24, son of a prominent Boston family and a member of the Hasty Pudding and other exclusive Harvard clubs, committed suicide today by jumping from a window on the ninth floor of the De Witt Clinton Hotel in Albany, N. Y.

His health and shattered nerves were the cause, according to the authorities and relatives. Young Thayer lived with his mother, Mrs. Frank H. Thayer, at 292 Beacon St. He had figured in a shattered college romance.

In April, 1930, his engagement to Miss Thayer, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Waterman Thayer, of Cambridge and Chatham, N. H., was announced. It was broken off, and his reason was made public. Miss Thayer is a graduate of Radcliffe. It was a college romance.

TUNNEY VOTE IS UP TO JUDGE

Bridgeport, Ct., Nov. 2 (UPI).—Decision was reserved today in James J. "Gene" Tunney's legal fight for permission to vote after counsel had argued at length over constitutionality of the statute under which the Stamford Board of Registration barred him from the elective lists.

The former world heavyweight champion, now a Democratic campaigner, has a petition for a writ of mandamus on file in superior court and today's hearing before Judge Frank P. McElroy was on a motion by counsel for the Stamford registrars to quash the Tunney proceedings on ground that the court lacks jurisdiction. Tunney was ill when registration time expired.

Thomas J. Ryle, representing the board of registrars, declared: "I have every sympathy for Mr. Tunney in this matter. He is a member of my party. But the statute is clear. It provides that the board of registrars on November 7 may register only persons who have become 21 years of age since October 22. To grant his plea would set a bad precedent."

HARDING UPHELD BY DAUGHTERTY

Columbus, Nov. 2 (UPI).—Warren G. Harding was a tolerant, but not a blind, President. Harry M. Daugherty, attorney-general in the late President's cabinet, declared in a speech here today commemorating the 47th birthday anniversary of Mr. Harding.

Daugherty, in one of his few public appearances since he retired from the cabinet, asserted: "No man suffered from the so-called freedom of the press as did President Harding. That the abuse came after his death is all the more shameful."

Speaking at a memorial services conducted by the Columbus Kiwanis Club, Daugherty said President Harding was one of the most tolerant of statesmen who respected every man's religious and political rights as better than his own.

GIRL HELD WITH EX-PASTOR COLLAPSES

Hazel Thompson, Seized With Three in Raid, Is Named in Court as Bandit Gungirl

Hazel Thompson, 23, of Windsor St., Cambridge, arrested in a Cambridge apartment raid with Arthur D. Davis, former Kingston minister; a second girl and a male companion, existing today in East Cambridge court after all four had pleaded guilty to serious charges.

The Thompson girl, arrested two months ago in West Roxbury court as a gun girl and lookout for a gang of chain store bandits, pushed forward to the front as she was being led from the court on her way to jail to await disposition of all four cases on Friday.

She was revived in an ante room by court officials.

Davis' other companions arrested in the apartment raid are David E. Tibbets, 25, of Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, and Miss Margaret Drayton, 17, of East Main st., who, according to Hazel Thompson's mother, has been going under the name of Margaret Davis.

All four were held in $1000 bail appearances Friday, but Miss Drayton was later released in custody of Miss Ruth Stone, women's probation officer, when Miss Stone went before Judge Robert Violand and made the request, stating that the Drayton girl had no previous record.

REINSTATE PASTORATE.

The former minister, one-time milk man on Dorchester, held a pastorate at Kingston for a year, resigning last June at request of the First Baptist Church trustees.

Davis' resignation, from the Kingston church was the result of charges made against him by Police Chief J. H. Doherty of Hingham, the police chief said today, and involved the Drayton girl with whom he was arrested last night.

A relative of the Drayton girl, complained to Chief Doherty about attention being paid her by the minister, and Chief Doherty told the couple into the woods, he said.

For two Sundays after the resignation, Davis wife performed the pastoral duties and even preached twice for him in pulpits. Then the Davis couple with their two children, moved away from Kingston.

According to Cambridge police, last night's raid was instigated by a relative of one of the girls. Hazel Thompson's mother denied she had made any report to police and said she believed her daughter in her staying at the home of a girl friend.

The first word of her daughters' new arrest came through the newspapers. Mrs. Thompson said she believed the Drayton girl to be the same girl who was introduced to Mrs. Thompson as a Miss Davis.

The Drayton girl is the daughter of Bradford Drayton, wealthy cranberry grower on Cape Cod, and she and Davis became acquainted when the latter was pastor at Kingston.

A large detail of police from Central station in Cambridge, accompanied by Sgt. William J. Puzo and Trooper John J. Nolan of Bridgewater state police barracks, made the raid in Cambridge.

GLASSFORD TELLS OF HIS FIGHT TO FEED BONUS ARMY

He Controlled Both Forces in Capital

In his first three articles in this space of the outrageous treatment accorded the bonus army in Washington, General Glassford blames the defensible episode on the blunders of the Hoover administration and relates how the devotion of the war veterans and their families was really a political plot which he sought to cure in frustration. The fourth article in the series is herewith presented.

By BRIG.-GEN. FELHAM D. GLASSFORD
Former Chief of Police of the District of Columbia
Copyright 1932 Universal Service, Inc., Washington, Nov. 2.—Nothing could have been more conflicting and contradictory than the dual role I assumed as a consequence of the B. E. F. invasion of Washington. I became at once the commander-in-chief of two opposing armies, the Washington police force and the bonus expeditionary force.

They were friendly enemies, to be sure, but too nervous. Their objectives were diametrically opposite. Yet for nine weeks while a bloodless battle raged, I crested this unique and anomalous position. It had its amusing aspects, but it was the most difficult role of my experience.

My foster army, the B. E. F., was obedient, tractable and loyal—up to a certain point. But that point was precisely my main objective and the end of my army, or at least, out of Washington, as quickly and peacefully as possible. The only command that I could give that could not be obeyed was "treat."

FOUGHT ADMINISTRATION
With limited funds and an appalling lack of equipment, I was in my power for this unwelcome campaign. I fed them, sheltered them, amused them and kept them as busy as possible under the circumstances. In the meantime, the strange army ever assembled under any flag gave me unswerving support.

I found the forces of lawlessness, rioting and the Reds and how I maintain order. I could march it up the hill but it refused to march down again.

While directing the attack of my official army, the police, against the foster army, I was forced to be on the alert constantly in ward off bank assaults from the commission, snipers in Congress and the "big game" of the administration. I propose to tell just what gentlemen did or refused to do to multiply the problems and make the task more difficult.

The first contingent of the B. E. F. arrived on May 26. Some 450 veterans were assembled and quartered in a vacant warehouse at 12th and D sts. S. W. That evening they held a meeting in Judiciary sq. In order to get a clear idea of the quality and condition of the men I was to deal with and control to protect the lives, the health and the property of the district residents. I went to the meeting. I sat on the grass and listened to the speeches. Each speaker dwelt upon the veterans' devotion to duty, honor, patriotism and they adopted resolutions to observe their country's laws and to preserve its institutions.

I found them to be, as they claimed, ex-soldiers, nobles, draftees, but loyal citizens.

ELECTED TREASURER
Though not in uniform, I was recognized and called upon to speak. I complimented their fine spirit and warned them that as chief of police it was my duty strictly to enforce the laws. I pledged my assistance in caring for their needs while they remained in the city.

Promptly, one of the veterans, I. C. Scholter, from somewhere in the South, moved to elect me treasurer. In accepting this task, I felt I could best fulfill my duty to the public if I were also in their councils and knew what was going on inside of their movement.

I went into their camp at the head of a force of "friendly enemies." I left an official in the enemy's army. My staff in that capacity was composed of five policemen, all ex-soldiers men who did a splendid job of administration, feeding and housing the B. E. F.

ON BARTLETT'S LAND
Every effort was made by the B. E. F. to keep all but bona fide veterans out of the camps. They realized this was essential to a popular movement was bound to attract hoodlums, hoodlums and other undesirable.

23,000 Bus Men Vote on Berlin Wage Cut

GEN. GLASSFORD, ALWAYS A WELCOME VISITOR TO THE BONUS ARMY

Gen. Glassford, former chief of the Washington, D. C., police, was always a welcome visitor at the camp of the bonus army. This picture shows Gen. Glassford, with one of his aides by

It was my plan to place most of the veterans in camps across the Anacostia river, in the southeast section of the city. I realized that the drawbridge might prove of strategic value should trouble occur. Two excellent sites were located. One, Anacostia Park, the other a 30-acre tract near the district line, secured from the Hon. John Bartlett, former governor of New Hampshire and later assistant postmaster general.

At first the food problem was solved by the Volunteers of America, which gave early arrivals cabbage soup bread and coffee for a couple of days. But funds were essential for subsistence.

WATERS HEADS ARMY

The church, people and the sporting fraternity alike cheered. More than $2000 was collected at a free boxing bout at the baseball park. A midnight benefit show netted $200. A collective at a wrestling match with the heavy-weight champion, Jim Londos, as the star attraction, gave us $125 more. Contributions came in from parts of the country. As treasurer I handled more than $15,000 in B. E. F. funds.

After the first fears and uncertainty and treatment of the people of Washington had passed, there came a flood of sympathy for these homeless, destitute men, such as I had not witnessed since the World War days. Churches took up collections and children set up soft drink stands and penny shows for the benefit of the veterans. It was all very pathetic and appealing.

The need of a leader among the veterans was supplied by the arrival of the widely heralded Oregon contingent of 286 men, who had trekked 200 miles across the continent under Walter W. Waters, of Portland. Because of his success in handling this march, the command was offered to Waters and he accepted.

Waters' reign was stormy. Twice he resigned and twice he was reinstated, finally with supreme power. Simple and sincere, Waters showed all was a showman. His appearance and flate for publicity captured the imagination of the B. E. F. When I needed his cooperation most, Waters failed me, but he was a tower of strength and an able ally during most of the occupation.

While directing the attack of my official army, the police, against the foster army, I was forced to be on the alert constantly in ward off bank assaults from the commission, snipers in Congress and the "big game" of the administration. I propose to tell just what gentlemen did or refused to do to multiply the problems and make the task more difficult.

SIMS TRAILS IN CUP TOURNAY

New York, Nov. 2 (AP)—The contest bridge team headed by David Eisenstein lead the group explained by Phil Hal Sims by the narrow margin of 223 points when the first half of the finals for the Vanderbilt cup ended last night at the Ritz Carlton.

Thirty houses were played in the session and the remaining 30 of the 60 scheduled will take place to night.

To gain their lead the Burnside quartet on which play has been Burnside, Howard Schenck, Richard Frey and Charles Lechridge, staged a startling reversal in the last 15 boards of the night's play.

When the first 15 were over the Sims aggregation, whose members are Willard Karn, Harold Van Hook and Wildemar von Zedtwitz, led by 1533 points.

At this point, however, the tide turned, and fortune ran the Burnside way, enabling his side to register a gain of 1750 points on the second group of hands.

DE GROOT SUES TO BE FREE OF 'DOUBLE WIFE'

The complex marital tangle involving Christopher de Groot, Ralph F. Mannix and the former Marie Gerety, who was allegedly wife to both at one time and the same time and in the same Brookline home, became slightly more involved today.

De Groot, Boston agent for a big insurance firm, sought an annulment of his marriage in a petition filed in Dedham court by John A. Conway.

Mannix, early in September, filed suit for annulment and divorce, revealing the strange mix-up.

De Groot was an invite to Europe when Mannix filed his action but he recently returned and set about straightening out his affairs.

The whereabouts of Mrs. de Groot (or Mrs. Mannix) is said to be unknown. She is the daughter of a former Boston fire chief. The Groot, Mannix and the woman occupied the same apartment at 1901 Beacon st., Brookline, for a long time.

All that remains to clarify the puzzle is for Mrs. Mannix (or Mrs. de Groot) to file annulment and divorce proceedings against both men.

Roosevelt Resists Temptation to Hit Back at Hoover

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Aroused by the character of the speech, someone turned on the personal abuse campaign being conducted against him, Governor Allen used the word "peculiar" as he began his reply in Philadelphia, Nov. 2.

The facts of this important incident, which would have produced the experience event of the year presidential campaign, have been learned by the Boston Evening American from reliable authority.

Following his 25-minute triumphal tour to Portland, Me., and back, Governor Roosevelt sat in his suite at the Hotel Statler, correcting the final draft of his address.

Roosevelt, quoted thoughtfully, looked up to him. The amiable Roosevelt smile had come to his face again.

"The temptation is great, but we'll keep on the path of dignity. Let him throw the mud. The American people will take care of that."

Roosevelt has known Hoover for years. He was a part of the Wilson administration when Hoover was brought in, made food administrator and gave the attention of the American public after long absence from public life.

Carter Glass and others personally detest Hoover. They believe that Wilson gave him his chance and he later deserted Wilson.

But Roosevelt, in his own opinion, he has never strayed, publicly at least. In any event, Roosevelt left Boston as he came, the champion of happiness and ambassador of the new deal. He will in his arena speech he had too much respect for the office of President to drag it into the mire of a campaign of personal abuse and misrepresentation.

"The number of men has increased greatly but so has the quality," he said. "They are no particular."

COAKLEY FLAYS YOUNGMAN AS 'PECULIAR'

In a statement dripping with sarcasm, Daniel H. Coakley today replied briefly to the attack made last night by Lieut.-Gov. Youngman upon his record and alleged close affiliation with Governor Ely.

He discussed what former Governor Allen meant when he referred to Youngman as "peculiar" as none of the possible conclusions he drew was complimentary to the Republican lieutenant-governor who is attempting to unseat Ely.

Coakley said he was not quite sure in what sense former Gov. Allen used the word "peculiar" in referring to Youngman.

"Adults with arrested mental development—minds of children—were peculiar," in Irish literature for a deficient of that type, the word is "mumman," said Coakley.

"Then again our own Bret Harte in the story of 'Trullalier Jones,' speaking of the Chinaman, shrugging at police in the study went, said in his never-to-be-forgotten poem:

"For was that are dark And trunks that are vain The heathen Chinese is peculiar."

"Which of the three types Gov. Allen had in mind, I do not know. The character, the folk, is also peculiar to the normal mind."

"Tomorrow night, over the radio, I will make answer to the flame of lies which the champion of the (—) uttered last night."

YOUNGMAN'S ATTACK

Last night, Youngman, during his radio address in which he launched his attack on Coakley, said:

"To draw the fire of an individual on Coakley's record and reputation for untruthfulness, a prospect before which any man must quail."

Teasing Coakley's alleged association with the old blackmail king, the results in the removal of two district attorneys, Youngman said:

"We cannot prevent Coakley from voting as a member of the council on the selection of judges, perhaps judges of the Supreme Judicial Court itself, which must ultimately pass on any attempt to reinstate him as a lawyer."

"What the people can do is elect a governor who is under no obligation to the mob, and who will refuse to appoint judges and officers of Coakley's choosing."

470,000 VOTE FOR COMING POLLS

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Voting precincts in every city, town and village in the United States will be the converging points next Tuesday for the greatest array of qualified voters in the nation's history—approximately 470,000.

A survey just completed places the total number of persons eligible to take part in next year's balloting at 4,965,230, an increase of four and a half millions over the previous record in 1928 and over ten millions more than the actual vote cast in the Hoover-Bush contest of that year.

How many of the qualified will actually exercise their voting privilege is a matter of conjecture. Some election experts believe the stay-at-home vote, normally about 25 per cent, will be greater this year. Others arrive at lower percentages.

SIZE RECORD VOTE

Calculated on the basis of 15 per cent, the actual vote next Tuesday would be around 700,000, or 28,920,445, an increase of more than 2,000,000 over 1928, when the record popular balloting peak of 36,789,663 was reached. In 1924, the Coolidge-Davis presidential contest drew 29,061,492 voters to the polls. Some calculations figure this year's vote as high as 45,000,000. Others place it below that of 1928.

CITIES SHOW GAINS

Excepting Philadelphia, which felt the decline in the total Pennsylvania registration, all of the big cities showed increases. Some of them follow with comparisons for 1928:

City	1912	1928
New York	2,531,131	3,064,618
Chicago	1,494,531	1,886,656
Los Angeles	698,818	822,847
Philadelphia	846,423	753,907
Cleveland	415,000	450,000
St. Louis	380,045	426,215
Boston	340,500	360,962
Baltimore	304,464	320,660
San Francisco	213,457	232,043
Kansas City, Mo.	209,538	207,041
Seattle	170,000	171,174
Denver	168,043	167,420
Portland, Ore.	146,000	156,787

The figures for Kansas City, 1932, exclude absentee, while the 1928 figures include absentee. The Denver 1932 total is incomplete.

DEFICIT TOPS $29 MILLIONS

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—A deficit of $29,840,000 for the first four months of the present fiscal year was disclosed by today's Treasury statement.

Income tax receipts for the period amounted to $147,768,233, as compared with $137,121,823 for the same months of the fiscal year 1932. On the other hand, miscellaneous internal revenue receipts have shown a corresponding decline, amounting to $247,733,169 as compared with $189,961,271.

Total receipts so far this year have amounted to $209,777, as against $203,624,874 last year.

The total gross debt on Oct. 31 amounted to $29,812,240, representing an increase of $20,000,000 over the total recorded on Sept. 30, 1932.

Labor Party Gains in English Election

London, Nov. 2 (AP)—Results from 85 of the more than 300 municipalities in England, Scotland and Wales where elections were held yesterday showed that the only net gain was registered by the Labor Party, which was decisively beaten in last year's Conservative landslide.

Available returns indicated a net gain of 15 seats on municipal councils for Labor.

Paris, Nov. 2 (AP)—Samuel Insull, Jr., sailed yesterday for New York today aboard the Majestic. He came to Paris several weeks ago after his father had been indicted in Chicago in the collapse of his utility interests. He had planned to join his father in Athens.

OWARD TO REPRESENT

Penal Institutions Commissioner

The Forgotten Man

By Edwin Markham

Dedicated to Franklin D. Roosevelt, after hearing his lofty and noble appeal for the Forgotten Man.

—Edwin Markham

NOT on our golden fortunes build high—
Not on our boasts that soar into the sky—
Not upon these is resting in this hour
The fate of the future; but upon the power
Of him who is forgotten—yes, on him
Rest all our hopes reaching from rim to rim.
In him we see all of earth's toiling bands,
With crooked backs—scarred faces, shattered hands.

HE seeks no office and he asks no praise
For all the patient labor of his days;
He is the one supporting the huge weight;
He is the one guarding the country's gate,
He bears the burdens on these earthly ways:
We pile the debts, he is the one who pays.
He is the one who holds the solid power
To steady nations in their trembling hour.
Behold him as he silently goes by,
For lo! it is at his word that nations die.

SHATTERED with loss and lack,
He is the man who holds upon his back
The continent and all its mighty loads.
This toiler who makes possible the roads
On which the gilded thousands travel free—
Makes possible our feasts, our roaring boards.
Our pumps, our easy days, our golden hoards.
He gives stability to nations; he
Makes possible our nation, sea to sea.
His strength makes possible our college walls—
Makes possible our legislative halls—
Makes possible our churches soaring high
With spires, the fingers pointing to the sky.

SHALL then this man go hungry, here in lands
Blest his by honor, builded by his hands?
Do something for him; let him never be Forgotten; let him have his daily bread:
He who has fed us, let him now be fed.
Let us remember all his tragic lot—
Remember, or else be ourselves forgot!

ALL honor to the one that in this hour
Cries to the world from a lighted tower—
Cries for the Man Forgotten. Honor the one
Who asks for him a glad place in the sun.
He is a voice for the voiceless. Now, indeed,
We have a tongue that cries the mortal need.

JAIL AND FINES FOR 30 LONDON JOB RIOTERS

London, Nov. 2 (AP)—Sharp sentences ranging from 12 to 15 months' imprisonment at hard labor, were meted out today to the 30 rioters arrested in last night's unemployed demonstration in the heart of London.

Three policemen, the Bow St. Townbridge, and Marylebone, were required to handle the case. At Bow St. a crowd attempted to rush the court to witness the arraignment of the prisoners, but was checked by a heavy column of police. Mounted police stood with a cordon and trouble was averted.

CARRIED IRON BARS

Police testified many of the demonstrators were armed because they carried iron bars, heavy cutlery and stones. Every civilian who was searched so he entered the courtroom.

These precautions failed to prevent an uproar in the Bow St. court, however, as one prisoner from the Edinburgh section of the "hunger marchers" yelled frantically as he was jailed for assaulting a police man.

He clung to the dock-rails, shouting: "Down with the means test and starvation!"

SCORES INJURED

The riots began when police started to clear a crowd of 10,000 from Parliament Square. They were waiting for the hunger march that never materialized. It turned into a riotous battle of stones and missiles against police.

Thousands of jobless, driven across London by the slashing blades of foot and mounted constables, attacked the police at every turn, smashed windows, invaded shops, attacked shops and automobiles, when they were not attacking the police. Riots were held, some seriously. Even the theater district was invaded and men and women in evening dress attacked and stoned.

GUARD AGAINST INSULT FIGHT

Athens, Nov. 2 (AP)—The American State Department has again upheld its position to request Greece to take action to prevent Samuel Insull leaving the country pending the arrival of a federal warrant for his arrest. International News Service is quoted as saying:

"There is no information to give out."

Chicago, Nov. 2 (AP)—Receivers for Middle West Utilities Co. today prepared to file claims against a trust for creditors into which they charged Samuel Insull had transferred millions of dollars' worth of personal property.

The allegations were set forth in a petition filed in Federal Court by the receivers, Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCullough, and which said that claims against the trust amounted to $10,000,000. Assets contained in the trust, the petition said, amounted to $1,600,000.

In acting on the petition, Judge Walter C. Lindbergh issued an order authorizing the receivers to file claims against the trust filed up to March 15, 1933.

The petition did not reveal the actual value of the trust or the character of the transferred property.

OFFICIAL

By RILEY GRASSON

The outstanding undefeated teams of the East go on the hot spot this Saturday and the long shadows that start unrolling behind the goal posts up and down the Atlantic coast won't be any longer as blacker than some of the faces of the titanic giants when that evening sun goes down.

Pitt, Brown, Colgate, Holy Cross, Pennsylvania, Harvard, Army, Columbia, Cornell and Dartmouth will all action this week-end and as the last chalk-line is crossed at least two of the "Reds" undefeated squads must limp away to the arena of broken dreams.

These two must come from Pitt, playing Penn, and Brown, engaging Holy Cross.

Pitt, generally regarded as the big hope-punch of this section, is fresh from its startling upset over Notre Dame, a feat which thrilled the nation and today makes anyone giving Penn a chance as fit candidate for a medal.

PENN UNDERDOG

But there are several advantages for Penn. The Panthers can't fight but he somewhat overcame after their blanking of the synthetic Blue and undoubtedly Pitt played its best game of the season last week.

Penn, in the role of underdog, is coming along at full stride and the Red and Blue may have enough spirit, aided by one of the first in the country, to turn the trick.

Given the breaks of the game, we like Penn.

In the other tie, Brown has the most difficult task. Winner over Yale and Harvard, the Providence team is slightly favored to take it from Holy Cross, which has not met the highest competition to date.

Colgate, leading the undefeated parade of this section in high scoring, has a soft one in Miami and will undoubtedly win more and more of it in Albright.

After a poor start Navy has come on quite a little, but the mud-dogs scarcely will be able to improve enough this week to ouster Lou Little's undefeated Columbia.

FAVORS ARMY

Army should win from Harvard. Both have been defeated. Princeton closed with a win over Yale in the year but right now has called for a good game.

Dartmouth should have a day of retributive justice against Hampshire, but Princeton will be busy in meeting Brown.

Intercollegiate football started in New York being together at the home of St. Mary's of California and Fordham and Georgia and New York University.

Both of the New York teams are in eclipse and Georgia and St. Mary's should triumph, although the margin of victory pointed to by the evidence suggests that the invaders is offset in part by the long trip they must make to the fields of battle.

CALAHAN-TUT GO FOR GARDEN

Andy Calahan, New England waterway champion, has signed to meet King Tut of Minneapolis in a 20-round bout at the Boston Garden on November 18.

It will be the Lawrence warrior's first start since he defeated Lou Brockland in a stirring 12-round bout at the Garden.

Tut has knocked out Dick Vinny and Billy Petrolis and is rated as one of the best heavyweight fighters in the world. He will come to Boston to fight training.

In the event Calahan wins from Tut, he will probably take on Brockland in a return go at the Garden.

IRISH-AMERICAN A. C. to Stage Amateur Show

The Irish-American A. C. will stage a diamond ball boxing tournament at the Arena on November 12.

The qualifying rounds will include bouts at 118, 135, 147, 160 and 175 pounds and in the heavyweight division.

GOLDBERG'S CARTOONS

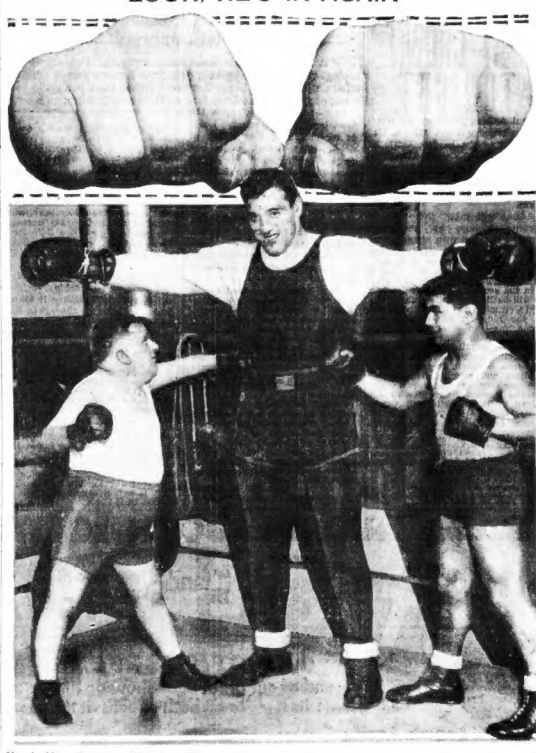

I TELL YOU SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THE COUNTRY. EVERY CITIZEN SHOULD PROTEST AGAINST EXISTING CONDITIONS.

YOU'RE A STATESMAN, PHIL. YOU OUGHT TO BE MAYOR.

WHY IS IT THIS MAN WILL SPEND HOURS TELLING YOU WHAT TO DO WITH THE GOVERNMENT.

AND THEN PUT GOLF ON ELECTION DAY. WHY IS IT?

LOOK, HE'S IN AGAIN

Here's Mrs. Carnera's little boy, Primo, again, the Grunting Goliath. Above are those pudgily he likes to stuff in other fighters' chins—each measuring a dainty 4½ inches across. The average fist measures approximately three inches across. The young man at the left is "Hooker Shorty" Burr, no longer a flyweight. He thinks he could cut the big boy down with rocking hooks to the knees and varicose veins.

MCCOY IN DRAW WITH GEORGE

Ed Don George, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion, and "Lubber" McCoy of Cambridgeport, Mass., will meet in a 10-minute bout at the Boston Garden on November 18.

George, who is 35 years old, is a former champion of the world in the 175-pound class. McCoy is 30 years old and is a former champion of the world in the 175-pound class.

The Football Roundup

Exanston, Nov. 2.—It's all very hard on the freshmen, but scrimmages against yearlings sometimes prove helpful to the seniors. North-western's second team did better than the regulars against the freshmen yesterday afternoon, as a result, Coach Sutton, football, and Roy Augustin, quarter, who practice jobs on the varsity for Saturday's game with Ohio State.

Washington—George Harris has won one big football game and now, second, third or fourth team, according to his new coach, Jack Haperty. The players are all starting from scratch, he said, and the lineup for the Western game will not be picked until just before the time to start Saturday.

Detroit—With the addition of a Thawman Day team, the Detroit State, six states and the District of Columbia are represented on the University of Detroit's schedule this year. In addition to the Michigan schools there are two Pennsylvania, Washington and Jefferson and Villanova, Oregon, Georgetown from Washington, D. C., Holy Cross from Massachusetts, Marquette from Wisconsin, Loyola of Louisiana.

Princeton—Although next Saturday's opponent, Lehigh, is one of the best in the country, the one which upset the Tigers last year, the Yale game comes first in the team's workbooks this week. The Tigers started yesterday preparing new plays to use against the Elis Nov. 12.

West Point—Army's regulars ought to be in good condition for the Harvard game Saturday, but unless they learn it today they won't know much about how the Crimson attack works. The varsity hasn't had a hard workout since last Thursday.

New Haven—Hopkins that Joe Crowley, Yale's 200-pound fullback, is due for considerable attention. The offense against the Bears was confined to straight backs and runs. Coach Laid Yaw feels that the time is now ripe to open up the bag of tricks. A number of plays which have been held back will be released for publication. Laterals, spinners and new passes will be tried.

Reg Rust is about ready to break loose. The big blonde native son has been returned by injuries. Last Saturday, however, he played for a short time. If Reg lives up to what is expected the fans will be an eager roaring, tearing band. And some of the load will be taken off Opp Batters.

The Stapleton team of Staten Island appears here next Sunday. Ken Strong, N. Y. U's greatest back, will be very much present.

The Stapleton team is an engine. The best ground-gaining team in the league, it has a Matt Flannery, a back, and Harold Hirschberg, 220-pound tackle, probably won't be in action until the Lafayette game.

Bellevue—Lehigh will face Princeton Saturday with several varsity players. Coach Matt Flannery, guard, and Alex Robb, tackle, are both suffering from injuries and Ted Claus, a back, and Harold Hirschberg, 220-pound tackle, probably won't be in action until the Lafayette game.

Worcester, Nov. 2.—Capt. John McEwan is driving his Holy Cross squad overtime these days in preparation for the very important meeting with Brown at Providence Saturday, a meeting of two unbeaten and united sides.

The Purple will need an improved attack against the Bruins. For while winning its last three games, it saw little of the team that snuffed good scoring opportunities. And Brown won't give the Crusaders many chances. The Purple must take advantage while the taking is good.

Yet rather than an improved attack, the question of a defense against Brown worries the H. C. strategists. Judging from what the Bruins have shown in their past few games, the best defense is a six man line, with the secondary defense either three or two-two.

A couple of fast strong ends can rush into the Brown backfield, perhaps shattering the Brown triple wingback effectiveness. Reiss and Shitt, of Holy Cross, are the best strong ends in the East. They are strong and fast and will be just what the football doctor ordered to shatter the Brown football team. The game will tell the story.

Bruins Seek Revenge on Holy Cross

Providence, Nov. 2.—There is no rest allowed for the Brown varsity for the remainder of the week, for the Bruins are itching for a win over Holy Cross on Saturday here. A victory for Brown means a win for the Crusaders back in another fashion can Brown feel avenged for the defeat.

Chase, Gilmartin, Gammie, Gilman, and others are pushing their attack for the benefit of the Bruins. They are hungry for victory and will be a great football team this week.

Wanted Fights

I had my own way of going however. I wasn't looking for a fight, but for a fight. I was willing to go to battle with anybody at any time.

Hearing that George Dixon, the featherweight champion of the world, was coming to town, I was meeting him in the ring, all I wanted was a fight.

Reverse Odds

I was presently matched to fight Pat Hayden in a ten-round bout at the Providence Athletic Club. The purse was $200, and Pat was heavy. He had been fought Tommy Ryan in a draw and was considered a thoroughly hard customer.

I was given my first appearance as a boxer, as carefully as any pink drink, while my face and body were with powder and by means of burnt cork. I shaved my eyes.

At this time I was matched to fight Tommy Tacey before the Suffolk Athletic Club in Boston. He had been fought a few times by Omaha but his name was not known to me. I was given my first appearance as a boxer, as carefully as any pink drink, while my face and body were with powder and by means of burnt cork. I shaved my eyes.

Unfriendly Referee

Boston, Mass. and some preliminary fights. It was then I learned how easy it is to make an enemy. Capt. Bill Day was refereeing an exhibition and asked my name.

"Kid McCoy?" he responded, "they must have named you that name. I was then 20."

"Well," I cracked back, "they didn't start calling you captain yesterday, I guess."

The captain looked me over after.

Ready for Tough Opponents

I ALWAYS FELT Carnera's board of managers didn't realize what a great fighter he really is. He took on a flock of push-overs when he had the class and ability to punch over first-class rivals.

The Sharkey tonic convinced the world Carnera rated with the front rank of heavyweights. For almost four rounds Primo gave Sharkey a furious opposition. Then Sharkey started bobbing and weaving. He came out of a wave to catch a left hook to the giant's jaw. He was hit with a right in the head.

Carnera came up off the floor to give the full 15 rounds. He took a severe punishment, but was a tough and dangerous. He was a left hook to the giant's jaw. He was hit with a right in the head.

Sharkey Likes Big Rivals

UNLIKE THE average run of fighters, large opponents aren't worrier Sharkey. He has never lost a bout when pitted against an opponent weighing more than 200 pounds. Witness his success against Williams, Godfrey, Maloney and Carnera.

Sharkey's speed has been of tremendous advantage to him when battling the big fellows. Carnera weighed more when he fought Sharkey than Williams or Godfrey did when they battled the champion. Primo, however, was faster than any man Sharkey has ever fought.

The champion will be at the stage Friday night to get a post as Carnera in action. If Carnera is winning, he may get a crack at the titleholder.

McCoy Makes Good in New England Rings

Kid McCoy's life story, told by himself, appears daily in the sports pages of the Boston Evening American. The tale is a thrilling chronicle of the smooth and rough passages in a colorful voyage on the sea of life. Follow this exclusive feature daily.

By KID MCCOY
As told to Lee J. Smith, CHAPMAN

In Buffalo, at the race track I had met Big Tim Sullivan, the New York Tammany boss, and he opened to me the riches of his friendship. I always thought of him and spoke of him as a father, and called him "dad."

He said "Come to New York, Kid, and I'll see that you get along." And I was practically unknown in the East at the time. I had been in New York as a boy boxer, but quickly passed the town up as too big for me. Now it was just my size.

I had a cheap rooming place in the Roaming Forties, and then straight for Madison Square Garden, where I was being arranged.

I volunteered to box an exhibition, and after I had shown my newspaper clippings I was signed up as a packman and asked my name.

Sullivan. For the first time I faced a huge crowd. I was perfectly calm. I was then 20.

"Well," I cracked back, "they didn't start calling you captain yesterday, I guess."

The captain looked me over after.

About this time I was matched to fight Tommy Tacey before the Suffolk Athletic Club in Boston. He had been fought a few times by Omaha but his name was not known to me. LUTZ LASHES TO BEDSIDE OF DYING MOTHER

By JACK CONWAY

Nick Lutze, a heart broken, is today trying to the bedside of his dying mother in Chicago.

Following his victory over "Gentleman" Jack Washburn in two out of three falls in their wrestling bout at the Boston Garden, the colorful Lutze, the darling of mat fans, was rushed across the city to the South Station, where he boarded a train for Buffalo.

Arrangements were made by Paul Hoover to have an airplane meet Nick in Buffalo. It will take him the rest of the journey.

"The show must go on," Lutze lived up to the best traditions of show folks and great athletes when he went in and wrestled Washburn at the Garden.

Half an hour before it was time for Nick to enter the ring a telegram arrived at the Garden addressed to Lutze. It was handed to Mrs. Lutze, who read it. The telegram was from a relative and read:

"Mother very low following stroke. Doctor says come home now. Love, Dad."

Mrs. Lutze showed the telegram in Paul Hoover, it was decided to leave the show and to go to Buffalo to see Nick.

"I wouldn't want Nick to feel I left the show unattended by me for a minute," said Paul. "If I am necessary, we will call off the show."

Mrs. Lutze went to her husband's dressing room. As she was going, Nick looked up, surprised, as he was the first to see her. He had never entered his dressing room. He was looking for something to wear. Mrs. Lutze was overjoyed with emotion and couldn't speak. She was about to show Lutze the telegram when Hoover stepped in.

BOWSER BREAKS NEWS

He threw his arm around Lutze's neck. Paul has always had tremendous affection for Lutze. The latter's splendid character has appealed to the promoter.

"We just get some pretty tough news for you, Nick," said Paul. "Your mother is quite sick. She is very dangerous. We are going to go to Buffalo to see Nick."

Lutze buried his head in his hands. It was only yesterday he was telling me that he was just getting over the shock of the death of his father last spring.

"My dear was only 32 years old," said Nick. "He was too young to die. He had also been a well man up to the day he dropped dead."

The three blacks in which I had all my savings crashed, but there was no financial loss. One can always make money. Mrs. Lutze was weeping with emotion. She was about to show Lutze the telegram when Hoover stepped in.

Tom Thumb Miniature

As a small but no less to dream about being the strongest man in the world... He wanted to be a weight lifter... Went to the gym... Followed the amateur work... Was studying dramatics... And finally acted to be an amateur actor... Trained for it, winning the junior championship in Paris in 18... the thought of being out and being looked up by his neighbors would not occur to him... He joined up with the regiment of the first division in France, the only one in the world under army control... Loved to parade but hated the truck works... While in the front he became a professional soldier... only one of the best.

BOARDER, HELD IN $100,000, DENIES ACT

Miss McSwiney Says Three Bullets Were Fired at Close Range in Beverly Home

From her cell in Beverly Hospital today Miss Marie J. McSwiney denied to the city police her story of her shooting by Joseph Mackey, a boarder in her Knowlton at home last night. At the same time, in Salem court Mackey pleaded not guilty to an assault with a dangerous weapon upon Miss McSwiney, following his arrest early today at his brother's home in Arlington, where he had fled following the shooting. Mackey came into the room, and I noticed a peculiar light in his eyes. "You won't speak to me, huh?" he said. "Of course I will. I always speak to you," I replied. "His face paled and his neck bulged. Without a word, he pulled a gun from his pocket and fired three times. The third bullet was fatal. Miss McSwiney could remember nothing clearly after one bullet pierced off her head and the other pierced her leg. "I did not, shoot her," Mackey said in Salem court. "The police say I did, but I did not know anything about it."

ARREST IN ARLINGTON

The up sent here, Charles E. Carroll of Arlington and a squad of officers to the home of Mackey's brother and the hunted man was found on a couch in his brother's dining room. "You're crazy. I don't know anything about any Beverly shooting," police said he replied in questioning. He then refused to talk unless he had arranged to retain a lawyer. Mackey is a World War veteran who has been a roomer at the McSwiney home for some time. He was more a chauffeur and companion of the late Roland A. Lincoln, Boston attorney, and U. S. Representative at the World Peace Conference. Since Boston's death Mackey, according to police, has been morose. He appeared to be in a daze at the time he was arrested and even after he had appeared in court he did not seem to realize what had happened.
